UNION GATHERING AT MAGNOLIA.

MORE THAN 6,000 PATRIOTS IN COUNCIL.

OVER 1,100 VEHICLES ON THE GROUND.

Speeches by Hon. I. N. Arnold, Rev. Mr. Eyboll, Judge Bangs and Dr. Boale.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

MAGNOLIA, Ill., Aug. 27, 1863.

Just after the splendid victories our armies gained at Vicksburg, Port Hudson, Helena, Gettysburg, &c., the Union Leagues of Peoria and adjoining counties, decreed it a fitting occasion to call the patriotic people together that they might suitably rejoice over the triumphs gained, to renew their vows to restore the Union at all hazards, and to destroy the cause of the rebellion. Magnolia was fixed upon for the gathering place, although it is ten or twelve miles from any railroad, steamboat or stage communication, and Friday (Aug. 27th,) was named as the time for the gathering. The meeting has proved a great success, far above and beyond anything that its most sanguine friends anticipated. Never within the recollection of the oldest citizen of Putnam county, has there been one-half the number of people gathered within its borders for any public occasion, and the enthusiasm of the crowd was fully up to its numbers. It seemed as if the whole people were here—men, women and children. There could not have been less than EIGHT THOUSAND PERSONS present—this was the estimate of the most cautious; and was founded upon the fact that over ELEVEN HUNDRED VEHICLES, well filled, by actual and careful count, were on the ground, to which may be added an immense number of equestrians, pedestrians, and also the citizens of Lacalle, numbering many hundreds, but outside of the crowd. Whilst it was very closely packed, was beyond the reach of the voice of the speakers, although each one of them possessed a penetrating and far reaching voice. The enthusiasm of the crowd was fully up to its numbers. The sentiments of the speakers, especially when they enforced the facts that for one or by reason of past events crushed before we can have sure and permanent peace, were responded to in a manner that left no room to doubt that the people of Peoria and adjoining counties are fully up to the stand point of the most persistent on the subject. They emphatically declared that nothing but the complete and eternal annihilation of the secessed institution would meet the necessities of the times, and any one who would attempt to stop short of that, would fall before the crushing force of loyal opinion.

The meeting was held in a beautiful grove about half a mile north of Magnolia. Its fame seems to have established quite a number of stands at which refreshments were sold, the proceeds of which are to go to the soldiers' aid societies of LaSalle and Peoria counties. There were also three stands of music and a fine choir present, whose excellent harmonies lent an additional attraction to the occasion.

CHOICE OF OFFICERS.

The immense crowd was called to order at 11 o'clock, a. m., and the following officers chosen:

President—Andrew Wardlaw.
Vice Presidents—J. P. Hayes.
Secretaries—C. C. Bonney.

The first speaker introduced was Rev. J. C. Eyboll, of LaSalle. Your correspondent had not reached the ground when Mr. E. spoke, and he did not therefore hear his speech, and is unable to give its points. But he was informed by those who did hear it that it was a fine effort, worthy the occasion. After Mr. Eyboll had concluded, the meeting adjourned one hour for dinner.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

At two o'clock, p. m., the music by the band and the glee club, the President introduced to the meeting Hon. Isaac N. Arnold, Representative in Congress from Chicago, and he was received with great cordiality.

MR. ARNOLD'S SPEECH.

Mr. Arnold said:—I hoped to have had the pleasure of announcing to this audience to-day that the news and stories heard of the demolished battlements of Fort Sumter; but although he was manic positively to have that announcement, yet he still believed that it was true—that the old flag does rave over Sumter, and that it would continue to wave in proud triumph there while one letter or stone lay upon another. And if Charleston has fallen, or when it does fall, I would have some noble man gather up a piece of the ruins, and when the storm shall have passed away, we will not blush for her.

Yours truly, I. N. ARNOLD.

Who First Ate an Oyster.

The name of the courageous individual who first ate an oyster has not been recorded, but there is a legend concerning him to the following effect:

Once upon a time—it must have been a prodigiously long time ago, because it was in the early days of mankind, when everything was new—there lived a man who was thinking over the matter of his dinner. He had been out in the field all day, and was very hungry, and as he sat on a log and looked around him he saw many things that he could eat. There were nuts on the trees, and berries on the bushes, and roots in the ground, and he had seen his wife dig them up and cook them. There were also many animals that he had killed with his bow and arrow, and which his wife had cooked. There were fish in the water, and he had caught them with a hook and line, and had seen his wife cook them. There were also many things that he had seen his wife cook, but which he had never eaten himself, and he thought he would like to try them. So he took a piece of each thing that he saw, and put it in the fire to cook. Among the things he took was a round, white object, which he found in a hollow log. He had never seen anything like it before, and he wondered what it was. He thought it looked like a stone, but he knew that stones were not good to eat, so he concluded that it must be a kind of bird's egg. He put it in the fire with the rest, and when it was cooked he ate it. It was delicious, and he ate all the rest of the things that he had cooked, and then he went home to his wife and told her that he had found a new kind of bird's egg, which was very good to eat, and that he had eaten it all up. His wife was very angry with him for eating all the food that she had cooked, and for not bringing her any of the bird's eggs, but he told her that she could go and get some for herself, and that he would cook them. So she went and got a number of the eggs, and put them in the fire to cook, but they all burst and were spoiled. Then she scolded her husband severely for having told her to cook the eggs in the fire, and he said that he had cooked them in the fire, and that was the way he had cooked the egg that he had found in the log. Then she said that he was a fool, and that he knew nothing about cooking eggs, and that he should have cooked them in the water. He said that he would not believe her, and that he would cook the rest of the eggs in the fire. So he put the rest of the eggs in the fire, and when they were cooked he ate them, and found that they were very good. Then he said to his wife that he would cook the rest of the things that he had found in the log in the water, and he did so

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.

Our Washington correspondent was allowed, yesterday, the privilege of unrolling the Reciprocity Treaty in our columns.

We accept his letter and the statements therein as summary of all that can be, or has been, said on this side of the question; and as he narrows his objections down to so close a compass and states them so concisely, we reprint the pith of what he has to say:

It is quite evident that the Provinces at least have no reason to complain, and there is not the remotest possibility that they will give the treaty or abrogation during the next hundred years. The following figures tell the story more graphically than could columns of words:

TRADE BETWEEN THE PROVINCES AND THE UNITED STATES AND BRITISH NORTH AMERICA.

Years ending June 30.	Imports.	Exports.
1851	$4,000,000	$1,700,000
1852	4,500,000	2,000,000
1853	5,000,000	2,500,000
1854	6,000,000	3,000,000
1855	5,500,000	3,000,000
1856	6,000,000	3,500,000
1857	6,000,000	3,500,000
1858	6,000,000	3,500,000

These figures speak for themselves. They show that under the "Reciprocity" Treaty, the exports from this country to the British Provinces were largely in excess of the imports, and that the current was setting in the same direction against us in the trade with the mother country. The effect of the treaty was, in less than two years, to turn the scales, and to give the Provinces an excess of exports amounting to more than a million. In 1851 we exported to the Provinces a little more than we imported from them, which was not an unfair trade, considering them as a part of a great empire, the trade with which is the aggregate where a balance against us in the trade with the Colonies, like that with the mother country, is against us, and also is the result of "Reciprocity." Of course, the balance has to be paid in gold.

These figures do speak for themselves. They show how beneficently the Treaty, now so seriously assailed, has worked for each party thereto, and how illiberality and fairness in inter-national legislation promote the prosperity and happiness of all who fall within its scope. True, our imports have generally increased; but as long as our exports bear the proper relation to these imports—as they always will where trade is unrestricted—none but beginners in the science of Political Economy will see any cause of alarm therein. We want no Canadian money, because commodities, not gold, are the basis of national wealth; hence, as long as the Provinces can enrich us from their excess of what we have not, or have in limited quantities, in exchange for what we can profitably spare, the trade, though not a dollar of coin should enter into it, will be mutually profitable; and no bugaboos about "balances" will suffice to make our people of the Northwest surrender it for the purpose of going back to the restrictive policy and worn-out barbarisms of the past. But it is not true that the balance is against us. The excess of a few hundred thousands of dollars of imports, over exports, as shown in the returns of 1858, proves only that the profits of the commerce, on our side of the line, were small, or that they have been paid in money, of which, in the returns to which we refer, no mention has been made. We have, in former discussions of the question and other questions of the sort, so often had occasion to expose this gabble about the "balance of trade," that we are afraid that our readers will be bored if we attempt it again; but the truth is so much needed that we must venture. We take the table of figures above which will, better than a hypothetical illustration, serve our purpose. According to them, we send to the British Provinces in 1851, merchandise to the value, by the books of our custom-houses, of twenty-two millions of dollars. This valuation is made the places of shipment. Now, in Canadian ports, after freights, interest of the money, storage, commissions, insurance, and profits are added, these twenty-two ought to be swelled to at least twenty-eight millions of dollars in products valued at the places where the exports were appraised. Would six millions be too large a sum to cover the ordinary charges that we have enumerated, and the legitimate profits on a business of twenty-two millions in the bulky and heavy articles that the treaty covers? But, for these twenty-two millions we have got back, by our own valuation, only twenty-[illegible] millions. Again we say that the business [illegible] 1851, with Canada was not profitable to our merchants—at least [illegible] that the charges that have accrued in, and the profits derived from this Canadian trade have been paid in money of which account has been kept. At any rate it is clear that we could not, on such a showing, have paid the Provinces a dollar in coin. Hence the balance of trade objection in the treaty goes to the ground. To make the case clearer still, and to show how utterly fallacious and absurd, the balance of trade theory is, we will suppose under the illustration of N. Hamel, the French Economist, that half the vessels carrying these cargoes south twenty-two millions, to the Provinces, had foundered or been wrecked on the lakes and their cargoes lost. The account would stand thus: Exported, $22,000,000; imported, $11,000,000; balance of trade in our favor, $11,000,000. Absurd! says the reader; and so it is—just the absurdity that is the basis of our correspondent's letter, and of his objection to the confirmation of the trade with the Provinces.

If the Reciprocity Treaty needs modification, as it perhaps may, amend it so as to eliminate all just causes of complaint—but to its abrogation, the Northwest will not willingly consent. The trade which it has developed is too valuable to be surrendered without a struggle, and the free outlet to the ocean which it has opened by the way of the St. Lawrence, is a counter-poise to the grasping cupidity of New York, in the management of her canals, to all general railroad combinations and consolidations, that we must not be asked to give up. Let legislators bear this in mind!

THE REFUGEES AND THE MEXICANCHIEFS.

The beggar-folk over the water who have been showing us so lustily of late become [illegible] New York it is, which they are pleased to call an insurrection, ought to be particularly immaculate themselves to justify the [illegible] which they have raised against [illegible]. The truth is that civil wars are, as rule, sacred, so that [illegible] do occur, our transatlantic [illegible] know where to [illegible] them. They understand the necessity of them well enough in their own parts, because they are so frequent, and are rife in the country as some way or other with paying government. The history of every community, is in the first instance a struggle between the strong and the weak, and in the second, between the people and the nobles. That form of government is possible of revolution, and in that proportion is the intelligence of the people, is the institution of the germs of the world under which, and the conditions of the so-called heroes of them.

The people [illegible] Government exist they accepted [illegible] recognition by what is called the [illegible] powers, and every ruffian who [illegible] power has been [illegible] by the heads of [illegible] and the [illegible] of [illegible].

The American Republic has [illegible] on [illegible] and has [illegible] Monkey [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] Europe [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Chicago Tribune.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 30, 1863.

THE CITY.

The speech delivered by Gov. Seymour, in Chicago on the 18th inst., has been published in pamphlet form, and is furnished from this office at $6 per hundred copies. Those wishing a document that has the ring of the true metal, will enclose the money to us and the pamphlet will be forwarded by express. Every soldier in the army should have a copy, and every Loyal Leaguer should see to it that the document is placed in the hands of every thinking man within their respective Districts.

Address: TRIBUNE OFFICE, Chicago, Ill.

TO COUNTRY MERCHANTS.—Country Merchants visiting Chicago to buy Goods for the fall trade, can save money by ordering their Heads, Cards, Bill Heads, &c., at this office. We do all kinds of Job Printing.

TRIBUNE Co., 51 Clark st.

NORTH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Preaching in the North Presbyterian Church this morning at half-past 10 o'clock, by Rev. Willis Lord D. D.

TURNVEREIN CATALIST.—Major Hamilton B. Dox has received authority from Gov. Yates, and accepted by the War Department, to raise three additional companies for the 12th Illinois cavalry. He is this city.

PERSONAL.—Rev. J. O. Burton, formerly Rector of the Church of the Atonement, is in the city, and is stopping at 461 West Washington street. He will preach this (Sunday) morning at St. John's Church.

PERSONAL.—Rev. Geo. Trask, of Fitchburg, Mass., father of J. C. Trask, editor of the Lawrence (Kansas) Journal, is in this city, on his way to Lawrence, to secure the body of his son, who is among the murdered by Quantrell's band.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES AT CAMP DOUGLAS.—There will be religious services held at Camp Douglas this (Sabbath) afternoon, at half-past three o'clock; the Chaplain of the 72nd Michigan Sharpshooters and the Rev. Mr. Trimble from the city, officiate.

AT BRYAN HALL.—There will be preaching at Bryan Hall to-day, by Mrs. Mansfield, at half-past 10 o'clock. Subject: The Authenticity of the Scriptures. Also, at 3 p. m., by Elder Mansfield, and at half past 7 in the evening by Mrs. Mansfield.

MANNER ITEM.—Capt. Reid, master of the schooner Truly J. Bronson, reports passing yesterday morning when abreast of Bailey's Harbor, a bark with fireman and mizzen mast gone. He supposed her to be the Western Metropolis, as they had been in company together.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.—Colonel S. W. Hotchkiss, the father of Colonel C. T. Hotchkiss, of the 89th Illinois volunteers, an old-time resident of Chicago, died on Saturday of paralysis. His funeral will be attended today at 3 p. m., from his late residence No. 275 Clinton street.

MEMORIAL FROM THE BRITISH CHURCHES.—There will be a Union meeting, at Bryan Hall, this evening at half past seven o'clock, to receive Rev. Dr. Massey, of England, who bears to the people of this country a memorial of sympathy from four thousand British Ministers and Churches.

SCHOOL OF TRADE.—The School of Trade, J. Dykenforth Principal, now numbers near five hundred students and is open daily. The Preparatory class for boys commences on Tuesday next. For scholarships apply to the Principal. After the first of October next, evening classes will be held between seven and ten each evening.

THE SOLDIERS' HOME is doing a good work in taking care of our brave men who pass through the city. There is however, much bedding required, for which the Ladies would earnestly appeal to a benevolent public. Let bedding of every description be sent to the Home immediately, No. 45 Randolph Street, and the gift will be thankfully received and acknowledged.

ANOTHER TRANSACTION.—Mrs. West whose transactions with the Merchant's Loan and Trust Company several weeks ago, were duly recounted has been heard from. It seems the same day she swindled the banking house above mentioned, she purchased of C. C. Parks a draft on New York for eight hundred dollars, which when presented read very plainly "eighty" dollars, and that amount was paid. Mrs. West has not yet been arrested.

NEW WAREHOUSE.—The Grain Warehouse and Elevators of Albert Stuges & Co., near the Burlington and Quincy Railroad crossing, are among the most perfect and complete of their kind in Chicago. With abundance of room, the most improved machinery, and labor saving appliances of the most perfect character it is not strange that they are about to secure their full proportion of patronage. After the first of September their charges for storage of grain will be one cent per bushel instead of two cents as heretofore.

FOR OUR EXCHANGES.—Mrs. L. L. Perham, of Racine, Wis., writes us to obtain some tidings of her husband. Mr. Perham was in Rosecrans's Division at the time he commanded at Corinth, and on the 12th of September last was taken prisoner at Iuka. Subsequently he was paroled and sent to Memphis and ordered Cairo en route for his home on the 7th of October, since then nothing has been learned concerning him. Mr. Perham had a pocket book marked "James Monroe Perham, Brookfield, Vt." Will Iowa and Illinois papers please copy this paragraph?

LARCENIES.—Two men, named Michael Dunkey and John McNulty, were examined in the Police Court, Saturday morning, for robbing James Wright, mate of the bark Norman, of $17. They were held for trial in the Recorder's Court, in the sum of $400 each, and committed in default of bail.

Pat. O'Haley was also examined Saturday morning, in the same Court, for stealing a carpet bag, $15 in money, and other articles from a German boarding house in the North Division, held to bail for trial in the Recorder's Court, in the sum of $400, and committed in default thereof.

FIRE.—Early Saturday morning dense smoke was discovered rising from a huge pile of coal in the yard of S. B. Williams, south of Van Buren street bridge, and on the east side of the river. There was no fire visible, but from attending circumstances it was believed that the pile was on fire in the centre. The origin of the fire can only be ascertained for by a spontaneous combustion.

AT 11:15 o'clock Saturday forenoon an alarm for the 1d district was rung, caused by the burning of the roof of the two-story frame building 121 Van Buren street. Loss, $50.

MCVICKER'S THEATRE.—"Dot" will enter upon its second week on Monday night, and is announced but for a few more representations. The actors absorbing the first scene representing a dark, thick fog, with the words in the third beautiful vision, "The Cottage in the Snow," the "Sailor Boy," and the "Tea Table." The entire scene then changes with excellent effect to the cottage of Everybody. This much of the play closes with the return of the sailor boy to the cottage. The second act is another beautiful effect, it comprises cottage built upon the stage, gradually moves off, exhibiting at the same time two most effective pictures—one of anguish and despair, the other of mirthful mystery of Caleb's fortune telling. From the moment the curtain rises there is a long interval filled in the discovery. The fancy between Mr. Tolrico and characters are all beautiful, and the introduction of the dress with the "pattern dance" exacts unutterable laughter.

THE PALMER JEWELRY HOUSE.—Mr. James H. Rose, so long and favorably known in connection with the firm of Hirsch & Rose previous, at 111 Lake street, of which firm he is the active member, was the last to enter the field of competition, and has opened with the largest and most elegant stock ever offered in the west. He is very energetic, and embarks everything in the way of jewelry of the most valuable kind. Mr. Rose has also taken charge of the watch department of the above establishment, which will be found to surpass the best efforts. Of course the fashionable cosmetics, and toilet articles will be found in abundance. The best styles
